As was expected, this was a day of excitement and accidents at Madison

No less than half a dozen times the riders fell in bunches, and at one time only four of the teams were represented on the track.

John Bedell, one of the New York boys, was badly hurt in one spill, Stin-son refractured a broken collar bone, Franz Krebs was bruised from head to foot and almost all the others got scratches and cuts.

Three of the falls were occasioned by the collapse of riders who simply tum- Lesser 2. Doeskin 3 bled from their wheels from exhaustion. The other falls, which happened later in afternoon, were all caused, the riders say, by Maya, who made desper ate efforts to regain the laps he and Mc Farland were shy.
